

Beauty with Style offers Dutch certification courses in total body care

Martine Koeten, Director of Beauty and Style Spa and Wellness Center on the Avenida Milio J. Croes in Dakota has been offering her services as a fully certified masseuse and body care specialist for the past six years in Aruba. Recently she had eleven students finished a twenty-month course from the KOC that provides a degree in wellness care that qualifies participants in the science of massage, facials, nail, and medical pedicure care.

Martine's center not only trains, but offers this very special care for her clients, often while training students towards earning the certification that will allow them to work anywhere in the world. The KOC has very strict standards of quality in their requirements for certification, and individuals that earn a degree from KOC are welcome as employees at beauty and body care establishments all over Europe, and all corners of the globe.

Visiting Aruba for a few days to conduct the testing was Iet van Pelt of the KOC, enjoying her first time on the island. This is the third course of study conducted by Beauty with Style, and for the finish of each course, the KOC in Holland has sent a different examiner, to keep the decisions of the person testing degree candidates impartial. Martine Koeten is also a certified instructor and examiner for KOC, and her "Wall of Achievement" filled with dozens of certificates of the courses and testing she has completed is impressive.

The appearance of a modest home from the exterior is the premises of Beauty with Style a complete center for the care of the skin, muscles, feet, and hands. Stimulating or relaxing massage, hot stone massage, body wraps and specialized manicure and pedicure are offered in this fully equipped facility, which has a state of the art teaching center. Those trained in Martine's ten month medical pedicure course are qualified to attend to hospital patients suffering from diabetes, which need special care.

Martine announced that she is beginning a new course in September, and individuals must have a MAVO or HAVO degree, plus willingness to study and work hard to earn this coveted certification in wellness care. Her center offers unique career training programs and opportunities not found anywhere else in Aruba, and interested parties can contact her at telephone # 588-7515 if they are interested in a future in this field, or e-mail koeten.j@setarnet.aw.
